Fires, Books and the Writing Process

Brady Hutchison, from the Louisiana/Texas border, spent 15 years as a firefighter and arson investigator. After an injury ended his career, he earned a BA and MA in History, along with an MS in Criminal Justice. Hutchison now teaches History at ACC and writes novels under the pen name Lee Hutch. His novels are “So Others May Live” (2019) and “Molly’s Song” (2021), part of a planned trilogy.
